

Item 8.01 Other Events.

Throughout this document, AT&T Inc. is referred to as "we" or "AT&T." AT&T announces a change in accounting for customer set-up and installation costs. Historically we have followed an accounting policy of deferring customer set-up and installation costs only to the extent of deferred revenues recorded for upfront fees (e.g., activation charges), and to expense any costs that exceed deferred revenues. With our acquisition of DIRECTV, we have changed our accounting to a more preferable method of deferring these costs and amortizing them over the expected customer life of approximately four years, subject to an assessment of the recoverability of such costs. AT&T will apply this change retrospectively, adjusting all prior periods. The cumulative effect of the change on "Retained earnings" as of January 1, 2015, was an increase of approximately $3.3 billion, with an increase of approximately $4.4 billion in "Total Assets" and $1.1 billion in deferred taxes liabilities on our consolidated balance sheets.

This change in accounting principle will be applicable to video, broadband Internet, DSL and wireline voice services and is considered preferable in that it provides a more accurate reflection of assets (i.e., the contractual customer relationship obtained through the set-up and installation) generated by those specific business activities. Our new accounting method is more comparable with the accounting method used in the cable entertainment industry. With our acquisition of DIRECTV, changing to this accounting method will enhance comparability to other companies in the industry. This change in accounting will not have an impact on our domestic or international wireless results.

This change will be effective with the reporting of our operating results for the quarter ended September 30, 2015. As a convenience to investors who may want to consider the effects of this change on our historical results, we are providing adjusted quarterly and annual consolidated and segment results for 2013, 2014 and the first two quarters of 2015 in Exhibit 99.1 and 99.2 hereto. Additionally, we are providing the adjusted quarterly results for our Wireline segment in Exhibit 99.3 hereto.
